Stevenson Faces Huge Test In U.N.

Tries To Persuade Soviet To Drop Bid For Disarm Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson today faced the first big test of his U. N. career as he tried to persuade the Soviets to drop their demand for a disarmament debate at the current assembly session.

The U. S. delegation claimed wide support in its campaign to trim the assembly docket to only essential housekeeping items, giving the Kennedy administration a breathing space in which to formulate new policies on disarmament and other major East-West issues.

But a U. S. spokesman indicated the Soviets were insisting on a full assembly debate on Premier Khrushchev's call for total disarmament.

To win the Soviets away from this declared stand would boost U. S. prestige in the 99-nation forum and strengthen Stevenson's hand in future international exchanges.

The new U. S. delegate already has won favor among many smaller nations with his approachability and friendly interest in their problems. But now they want to see how he makes out across the negotiating table from the Soviets.

Stevenson reportedly urged the Soviets to shelve assembly discussion on the controversial arms question until the next assembly in September and devote the interim months to quiet negotiations.

The British have been giving Stevenson strong support in his drive to pare down the assembly agenda, but they feel it is up to the American delegate to do the final selling job.

The 46 Asian-African nations, a pivotal force in any U. N. negotiations, also favor lopping acrimony-provoking items off the agenda, but they insist on seeing some concrete sign of U. S.-Soviet agreement before spelling out their own position.

The Soviet Union has insisted that if any items are cut from the agenda, they should be such issues as Hungary and Tibet. If those two anti-Communist complaints are discarded, the Soviets indicated they would scrap their charges against U. S. reconnaissance flights.

Store Robber Obtains $100 At Wellsville

A brazen thief took a cash drawer containing almost $100 in cash, some checks and a vehicle titles from the Rahter Wallpaper Store, 711 Main St., Wellsville, after forcing open the front door about 1:10 a. m. today.

The business is owned by Mrs. Mary Rahter, City Council president, who resides in an apartment above the store.

She was awakened by the noise being made by the thief and immediately phoned police. She said they arrived within two minutes but the thief had fled, apparently frightened away after hearing her walking on the upstairs floor.

Police said a sharp instrument was used to force open the lock on the door. The front of the store was lighted and a street light is located on Main St. directly across from the business, keeping the area "almost like day," but this apparently didn't bother the intruder.

Mrs. Rahter said the exact amount lost is being checked, but that it would be less than $100. It was mostly in quarters and half-dollars. Nothing else apparently was bothered.

There was a very small amount of other cash nearby which was not taken.

But, the thief did pick up an envelope containing the titles to 15 vehicles owned by the Sterling China Co. plus a check with each. They had been sent Mrs. Rahter to make out license plates for the firm, she said.

Mrs. Rahter said she was awakened by a noise which sounded as if something had been dropped. She said she then could hear footsteps as the person moved around the store. "It sounded as if there was only one person," she said.

Snow Flurries, Much Colder Due Tonight

Winter-weary East Liverpool can expect more snow and colder temperatures tonight, apparently from the fringe of the storm that struck the Midwest.

The mercury will dip to 25 to 30 tonight and it will be windy. Today's high was not expected to go much above freezing as the cold spell moves in. Friday will not be as cold but there will be more flurries.

Jobless, Schools Eyed

Ohio House Votes Road Funds Shift For Use By Cities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Like a bunch of newborn puppies, Ohio lawmakers—after 10 weeks—finally are getting their eyes focused. And all they can see is money—money for the jobless, the schools and for highways.

Highway money: Twenty-eight Democrats joined 80 House Republicans Wednesday to send to the Senate by a 108-25 vote a bill to divert about $15 million a year in funds now used by the state to the highway needs of local governments.

Jobless benefit money: The House and Senate probably will agree today, before the weekend recess, on a compromise version of a riddled bill designed to "trigger" an extra 13 weeks of unemployment benefits at any time the jobless total hits 6 per cent for three consecutive months.

School money: The House has received a State Education Department bill which would increase state spending by $54 million in the next two years to increase the allowances for teacher salaries, raise the guaranteed teacher minimums, boost the operating expense allowance per classroom and raise the basic allowance for each teacher unit.

Those were the money issues immediately apparent. There also was the prospect that the House next will be tackling the knotty question of who shall be required to pay how much for the support of patients in mental hospitals.

The details: Over the objections of Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and his highway director, Everett S. Preston, the House passed a controversial measure to charge off the cost of operating the Department of Highway Safety to highway revenues derived from fuel taxes.

At present, the department is

Snow, Sleet, Rain, Winds Rip Northeast

Twin Storms Join Forces; 5-Inch Fall Reported In Maine

By The Associated Press
Winter lashed heavily at the Northeast today with gale winds, blinding snow, sleet and rain.

Twin storms which Wednesday raked the Southeast with tornadoes and paralyzed the Midwest with snow and ice joined forces off New England.

East winds of 40 miles an hour flung 5 inches of snow on coastal Maine, stopping air and harbor traffic and cutting visibility to nearly zero.

Gale winds piled tides 5 feet higher than normal at Boston and a heavy wet snow changed to rain during the morning, but inland Massachusetts caught drifts, with 8 to 10 inches expected.

Interior New England, upstate New York and northwestern Pennsylvania caught 4 to 10 inches of snow during the night and early morning. During the first 6 hours Thursday, 4 inches fell at Massena, N.Y., 5 inches at Burlington, Vt., and 7 inches at Lebanon, N.H.

The snow, rain and sleet made driving hazardous in many sections of New York state.

South of this storm area, it was raining.

Snow flurries still dotted portions of the Midwest today. The clean-up process was slow. The snowfall that ranged from 6 to 16 inches, with drifts piled up 2 feet and higher along highways.

Mayor Asks Hays' Help

Tax Change Called Threat To Area's Clay Industries

Citing an economic threat to the American Vitrefied Products Co. plant in East End and other branches of the ceramic industry in the Tri-State area, Mayor Bert H. Goodballet has asked Rep. Wayne L. Hays to seek restoration of an income tax depletion allowance taken away from the industry by the Internal Revenue Service.

American Vitrefied's local plant, employing 175 with a monthly payroll of $80,000, "has been put in a most unfavorable position" by the ruling, particularly since tax concessions were not amended so severely for its major competitor, the concrete pipe industry, the mayor wrote the 18th District congressman.

Citing the nationwide plight of

County Due $155,795 From Plate Revenues

Columbiana County subdivisions would receive a total of $155,795 more in license plate revenues from the bill enacted by the House.

The county is due $111,465; East Liverpool, $9,324, and Salem, $7,056, with the remainder going to other municipalities and townships.

Rep. J. Warren Bettis of Salineville and Rep. Clarence Wetzel of Lisbon voted in favor of the bill. Rep. William Carney of Mahoning County voted against it.

financed out of motor vehicle license fees. A shift to financing from motor vehicle fuel taxes would free about $15 million a year for local highway needs, city, county and township.

DiSalle and Preston insist the measure would take from the Ohio Highway Department money it needs to match federal contributions on the inter-state and arterial highway systems. Rep. Gail Porterfield, R-Knox, a co-sponsor, and Majority Leader Robert Taft Jr., R-Hamilton, contended the state still would have plenty of matching money left, even after the shift.

Significant in Wednesday's House vote—and possibly an omen for the future—was the fact that all Cleveland Democrats present voted with the Republicans and against the stand of the Democratic governor. If all six Democratic senators from Cleveland join the Republicans in the Senate in favor of the bill—and stick by their votes in the face of a possible veto by the governor—a veto could be overridden.

Senate Okays Meriwether's Nomination

Bitter Fight Stirred Over Appointment As Bank Director

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has confirmed the nomination of Charles M. Meriwether as director of the Export-Import Bank — an appointment that stirred more bitter criticism than any other President Kennedy has made.

The roll call vote of approval Wednesday was 67-18. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., continued the drumfire of opposition up to the last minute, calling Meriwether a racist anti-Semite and saying Kennedy had made a "horrendous mistake" in appointing him.

Kennedy, however, said later "I am confident that he will do a good job."

Meriwether said in a statement "This expression of confidence in my ability is reassuring and I accept with great humility the privilege of serving on the board."

Forty-eight Democrats and 19 Republicans voted for Meriwether; 10 Republicans and 8 Democrats were against him.

Meriwether is an Alabama segregationist and political ally of Alabama Gov. John Patterson, one of the first governors to support Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Meriwether told the Senate Banking Committee he never was a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Space Development Put Under Air Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara issued an order Wednesday keeping the lion's share of military space development under control of the Air Force.

The share may amount to 91 per cent of the $850 million budget for military space research.

McNamara said he and Deputy Secretary Roswell Gilpatric had decided to assign space development programs and projects to the Department of the Air Force, except under unusual circumstances.

Legislative action was completed yesterday on three more major bills which are now on their way to Gov. Barron. They are measures to establish a new Department of Natural Resources, set up a West Virginia Industrial Development Authority, and raise the tax on auto purchases from 2 to 3 per cent.

"The clay products industry needs help," the mayor added. "Curtailling of operations locally will mean further unemployment."

'Save-Cities' Program Kennedy Sends Congress $3 Billion Housing Plan

Non-Public School Loans Held Illegal

President Appeals To Critics; Claims Education Bill Hurt

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy says the Constitution bars federal loans to private secondary schools on any across-the-board basis. And he hopes advocates of such aid will desist lest the administration's education bill be killed.

Taking fresh issue with critics, the President sounded that appeal and expressed his views on the legal issues at a news conference Wednesday—even as word came from Congress about plans to press for loans to these schools.

Kennedy previously had asserted that he also believes outright grants to non-public secondary schools would be unconstitutional.

At the session with 350 newsmen, Kennedy dealt at great length with the administration's controversial $3.2 billion bill to provide federal grants to public schools, scholarships to college students and loans to colleges. It calls for neither grants nor loans to parochial and private schools.

But the conference questions and answers also ranged into the international field and touched on other domestic matters.

For example, Kennedy said he would like to see an easing of what he called Communist China's belligerent attitude and harsh attacks on the United States.

"But," he added, "we are not prepared to surrender in order to get a relaxation of that." And Kennedy announced that next Monday he will make a major policy statement dealing with the problems of Latin-American nations.

He also said he soon will be sending a special message to Congress indicating "what I believe to be the relative defensive position of the United States and other countries, and what needs to be done to improve it."

The President made that statement when asked whether he had yet concluded, on the basis of Pentagon studies, whether the Soviet Union has a missile advantage over the United States.

West Virginia Senate Holds Liquor Fate

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — All signs indicated the Senate would take the final step today to let West Virginia citizens decide the liquor-by-the-drink issue in the election next year.

The House - approved resolution to put the issue on the 1962 ballot was up for final adoption in the Senate. Drys said privately they didn't think they could keep it from getting the required two-thirds majority — 22 votes.

An only slightly different constitutional referendum measure was approved 24-8 in the Senate last month. But it died in the House, falling six votes and two votes short of the needed 67 on two attempts to put it through. Then on Tuesday the House adopted its own version with exactly the required two-thirds majority, 67-31.

If the Senate votes as it did before, the state's citizens will vote next year on a constitutional amendment to repeal the ban on sale of liquor for public consumption.

Ratification would give the Legislature power to legalize liquor by the drink, with county and municipal option.

Legislative action was completed yesterday on three more major bills which are now on their way to Gov. Barron. They are measures to establish a new Department of Natural Resources, set up a West Virginia Industrial Development Authority, and raise the tax on auto purchases from 2 to 3 per cent.

WHEELING BUILDING DESTROYED. Four firemen were injured battling a $400,000 fire in Wheeling Wednesday which destroyed the former Calico building. It took four hours to bring the fire under control. Firemen lingered until late afternoon, spraying the smoldering ruins. (UPI Telephoto)

Trio Injured When Car Hits Safety Island

Beaver County Man Fined $200, Jailed As Drunken Driver

Three persons were injured when a Beaver County man's auto crashed heading into the safety island on Broadway at E. 6th St. early today and the driver was fined and jailed this morning in Municipal Court when he pleaded guilty to operating a car while intoxicated.

The crash at 1:57 a. m. demolished the front of a 1956 sedan and injured: Marvin Speerhas, 21, of Industry R. D. 1, the driver; Clayton Diamond, 25, of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1, and Mrs. Kathleen Esken, 41, of 712 W. 9th St.

Diamond is in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with a fracture of the left knee and a possible fracture of the jaw. He also complained of neck injuries, the hospital said.

Mrs. Esken is in "good" condition. Suffering contusions of the chin and both knees, she was admitted for X-rays.

Speerhas was released after treatment of lacerations of the upper lip and a possible fracture of the hand.

Speerhas told police he did not see the safety island, which is constructed of concrete-filled sections of pipe set vertically in the pavement in the middle of the wide intersection and linked together with chains.

Pleading guilty to the drunken driving charge, he was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff. Judge Chertoff also confiscated the car.

Soviet Orbits Space Vehicle With Dog In It

Both Back Safely, Announcement Says Other 'Objects' Too

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today it placed in orbit and returned safely to earth a space ship containing a dog.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the dog, named Chernushka, and "other biological subjects" had been safely retrieved through the earth's atmosphere.

The space ship weighed 4,700 kilograms, or slightly more than five tons.

The Tass broadcast said the space ship, after "the fulfillment of the planned program," had been landed successfully "in the required area of the Soviet Union." It added:

"The dog's condition is normal."

Last Aug. 19 the Russians announced a five-ton space ship carrying the dogs Strelka and Belka was launched into orbit and returned safely. The Russians said they had traveled nearly 435,000 miles in an orbit that reached a maximum height of 190 miles.

This left wide open the question whether he would ask Congress to act by its normal procedures, or would short-cut the process by issuing a presidential reorganization plan, subject to congressional veto, under reorganization powers which Congress is now weighing.

The new department presumably would embrace all the agencies which Weaver, as administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, now supervises. These are the FHA, Public Housing Authority, Urban Renewal Administration, Community Facilities Administration and Federal National Mortgage Association.

4 More Power Firm Executives Released

Asks Prompt Legislation In Message

Aimed Chiefly To Aid Middle, Lower Income City Dweller

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today sent to Congress a $3.25 billion save-the-cities housing program, to be run by a proposed new Cabinet-rank department of housing and urban affairs.

In a special 10-point message Kennedy called for prompt housing legislation to spur the economy and reinforce the cities in their "desperate struggle against blight and decay."

Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver, who presumably will become the first Negro Cabinet member if his housing agencies are wrapped together as an 11th department, said drafts of the whole package of legislation will be laid before Congress this month.

While stressing the need to spur homebuilding as a stimulant to jobs and income, Kennedy's 10,000-word message was aimed chiefly at helping the middle-income and lower-income city dweller rather than the two-car suburb-anite.

The highlights included: A four-year, $2.5 billion authorization for urban renewal grants and loans.

A test program of 40-year mortgages—with no down-payment — for low cost dwellings, under the Federal Housing Administration loan insurance program.

A go-ahead for construction of 100,000 public housing units, in perhaps three years. Half would be earmarked and specially built for the elderly.

A major expansion of FHA's program of home improvement loans, to make this device possibly the major vehicle of the drive to upgrade decaying neighborhoods and modernize the nation's housing inventory.

The five-year limit and $3,500 ceiling on FHA repair and modernization loans would be greatly increased, Weaver indicated, and some new types of home-improvement credit never before made available may be devised.

Kennedy said the problem of cities and their suburbs should be "constantly brought to the Cabinet table" and deserve leadership at the top level of government.

He told Congress: "I therefore recommend—and shall shortly offer a suggested proposal for—the establishment in the executive branch of a new, Cabinet-rank department of housing and urban affairs."

This left wide open the question whether he would ask Congress to act by its normal procedures, or would short-cut the process by issuing a presidential reorganization plan, subject to congressional veto, under reorganization powers which Congress is now weighing.

The new department presumably would embrace all the agencies which Weaver, as administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, now supervises. These are the FHA, Public Housing Authority, Urban Renewal Administration, Community Facilities Administration and Federal National Mortgage Association.

Hammaraskjold Is The Target

Dag Hammaraskjold means nothing to Americans as an individual. Except for a few hundred Americans who have become his personal friends, they are wholly objective about the Swedish secretary-general of the United Nations. As a man, he is merely another functionary of the United Nations, even though he is its top-ranking official.

But in the weeks immediately ahead, the secretary-general of the United Nations will be more symbol than personality, because he has been ticketed for ruin by the Soviet Union. This ticketing for ruin was done before, in the case of Trygve Lie, the Norwegian who was the first U.N. secretary-general.

In Lie's case, it was made plain that the target for the Soviet Union's displeasure becomes helpless. He can defend himself only at the expense of the United Nations; he can save neither himself nor the organization, once he has been cast in the target role. And he will have to be defended as a symbol, though it will be a lost cause.

Hammaraskjold will find himself becoming an impediment to the United Nations, because it will be made clear to him and to its Security Council and General Assembly that he is the sole obstacle to agreement with the Kremlin. As an official, his usefulness will be undercut until there is none left. That is what happened to his predecessor.

Anti-Communist members did everything they could to prolong Trygve Lie's official life, but it was useless. He finally resigned as secretary-general to give the United Nations a chance to survive.

His offense had been to thwart Russia's attempts to pack the United Nations with its agents and to use pressure on him and other U.N. personnel to serve Soviet policy. Hammaraskjold's offense was to thwart Russia's attempts to pick off the Congo as its first conquest in Africa among the newly formed nations.

There will be times when it will look as if the Soviet Union was arguing about Africans, but the issue ahead will be Dag Hammaraskjold and how soon he can be forced out as the Kremlin's price for staying in. The new African nations are of no importance in the execution of a scheme that will demonstrate once more, if it is carried out, that the United Nations neither can get along with nor without its most captious member.

We're Going All The Way

A Polaris submarine, the Patrick Henry, has finished a cruise during which it stayed under water continuously for 66 days and 22 hours. Its commander is quoted as saying the submergence could have continued under water much longer. It apparently stayed only long enough to break the record of a sister ship, the George Washington, which stayed under for 66 days and 19 hours.

While this record was being logged by the Navy, the Air Force was pointing with pride to its X-15 airplane that had whizzed through space at a record speed of 2,650 miles an hour — fast enough to scorch the paint on the nose of the craft, which flies so fast that no human being could even attempt to do anything in its cockpit except survive to tell about it afterwards.

Meanwhile, on the drawing boards, in the missile factories and on the launching pads, rocket designers, builders and handlers were working feverishly to perfect space-eating machines that would go to the moon and the stars and back, with a view to carrying human beings. The idea is that we're going all the way on this thing if it takes everything we have.

It is going to be paid for somehow with the blood and sweat of us earth-bound wretches whose span of mobility reaches only from home to job to grocery store to tax office and return trip. This keeps down our overhead and leaves more for the up-and-comers who are setting the pace in our whiz-bang era.

A great gulf has opened between us. Frankly, we do not speak each other's language or think each other's thoughts. It is common these days for us to bat our eyes apologetically and admit we don't understand what these fellows are doing with our money and that if we did understand it we probably would be opposed to it. But it is of no consequence.

No one pays any attention to us, except in election years and just before tax collection time, when it's customary to take us into official confidence — not far but enough to make us wonder what would happen if they took us in any further.

We might ask why and make a scene.

'Spot Checking'

The value of "spot checks" by police at local bars was demonstrated again when a crap game was broken up early Wednesday at the Veterans Social Club on Pennsylvania Ave.

All taverns and clubs assume a definite responsibility when they are granted licenses. If they operate within the hours specified by the licenses, they generally have a profitable and legitimate business. If they don't, they often have a profitable but not legitimate business.

Fortunately, in a community the size of East Liverpool illegitimate operations cannot be concealed for too long a time. Some one generally has a tendency to "talk" and the law receives an opportunity to move in.

In fairness to the great, great majority who operate legitimately, the police should continue to crack down on those who don't.

One Place Where U.S. Leads

Almost nothing is being heard in this recession of the threadbare idea that women should quit working so man can have their jobs.

The emptiness of the claim that forced many married and some single women to give up jobs a quarter of a century ago when unemployment was approximately twice what it is today, though the population was less than 70 per cent of today's total, has been established too long to justify further argument.

A report in Russia concerning the need for more women workers is a reminder, moreover, of something the United States cannot afford to overlook. The United States has built its economy on the special skills of women in its working force. The jobs they do so well here are now seeking women's special aptitudes in Russia. But in the United States, where 40 per cent of the jobs may be held by women in a few more years, women's aptitudes already are being put to sound economic use.

This is one place where the American way of doing things and the relative freedom from household chores it has given women will not have to be compared unfavorably with the Russian potential. The aptitude and energy of American women have been released. While the Russian economy is recruting housewives to overcome a labor shortage, the U.S. economy has depended for a long time on millions of women who either never were housewives or split their careers between housewifery and outside jobs.

One of the significant oddities of unemployment is, moreover, that jobs held by women are notably steady; there is relatively little unemployment among women in the current recession. Another oddity is that few jobs held by women would be held as capably by men and many could not be held by men. They were created for women in the first place, which is turn-about-and-fair-play in a world whose jobs once were made for men, with all women regarded as interlopers and trespassers.

Russia, trying to pull itself into the industrial era by main force, is looking for five or six million Soviet women willing to take jobs by 1965, according to a Soviet economist who is widely quoted. An American can only wonder in reverse what would happen if five or six million women now employed in the United States quit work. There would be no automatic transfer of employment from women to men. There would be, instead, a great emptiness of skill where it had been forthcoming from women workers.

The Once Over

Big question in Ingo Johansson's fight with Patterson may be whether he has over-trained legally. Government suit for $598,161 in income taxes from two previous fights reveals Ingo claims that while he may be fighting in America he is by legal clauses practically in the Swiss Alps so far as tax collections are concerned.

He says he is a Swedish born Swiss resident protected from U.S. income tax by a covenant between U. S. and Switzerland covering income activities not involving permanent trade or business.

This implies that when flat on his back in last fight he was a corporation executive or agent functioning partly in the Alps, which would be a new long distance record for inhaling smelling salts. Twitching after the 10-count he may have thought he was at a board meeting to discuss further appropriations for St. Bernard dogs for swift rescue work in an hour of peril.

Evidently economics, Parkinson's Law and matters such as gross product and escrow arrangements fill Ingo's mind in the prize ring. There may come moments in battle when he concentrates on question "Am I in good shape from a Swiss viewpoint?" or "I'm all right, but are my lawyers?"

This could be disastrous when trading punches with Patterson.

Flinging a wild one at his opponent in Florida, will he be tortured by the thought "Am I missing through the Swedish, Swiss or American legal conceptions of tax liability?"

Uncle Sam includes promoters, TV stations and boxing managers in tie-up of Ingo's funds. Everybody got into the act, locally, nationally and globally. Perhaps it would be a better battle if fought with briefcases. ("To your corner! And don't come out in escrow!")

PRESIDENT KENNEDY says '41 billion long-range superhighways are a must. Does he mean the new frontier must be penetrated by pioneers without encountering a rut, a hole in the road or mud at the pass? He is also for 4-cent gasoline tax retention, joining those who want us to pay through the hose as well as nose.

Long Island railroad is serving hot breakfast for commuters. This is comforting in a day when so many roads seem to be offering nothing but cold tongue.

Mayor Wagner of New York says health may prevent him running again. He has rapid pulse listening to De Sapio and ragged nerves through reading Rockefeller speeches.

Slipping Off The Soapbox

Labor Is Always On The Agenda

By Victor Riesel

Iron bars may not be a prison make but they are inconvenient especially to a fellow like Al Capone's successor, Tony Accardo, chief of the crime syndicate of Chicago.

He is due to do six years in the federal prison for income tax evasion. So a month ago he called a crime convention—the sixth underworld parley since the cookout in tiny Apalachin, N.Y.

Because the date for briefing the gathering on who now would be boss was set for chilly mid-February, the bon vivants picked Hot Springs for their sessions. Mostly they lived on an island in Lake Hamilton, three miles southwest of the famed watering place.

The mob's previous parley was held in early November in equally sunny Las Vegas.

THE NEWS HERE is not merely that the organized crime syndicate of Chicago met to decide new jurisdictions now that Tony A. was going to prison. The news is in those jurisdictions.

Some of them include some unions.

A check through federal records on the "delegates" to the Hot Springs conclave reveal links with officials in a Midwest barbers' union, a cooks' union, a restaurant outfit and a teamsters' local.

The visiting hoods at one time or another had organized restaurant associations, dairy businesses, meat supply companies and oil fuel firms.

If you go back far enough on this gory trail, you run into such men as the late "Cherry Nose" Giff, veteran of the Browne and Boff shakedown of Hollywood industry and labor in the '30s. None of the delegates had ever made any move without Tony Accardo's approval.

Down in Hot Springs, slipping quietly from island cottages, to small restaurants, to the swank Jockey Club and other race track trappings was, for example, Joseph Di Varco, and so help me, they call him "Little Caesar."

"LITTLE CAESAR'S" roommate was a Dominick de Bello, one of the three "dons" who run a high dividend section of the Chicago underworld's business operations.

Mr. Caesar is a veteran of the McClellan committee wars. It was on July 11, '58, that he was questioned by Robert Kennedy.

That was wholesale day at the hearings. Three hoods were sworn in at once — "Little Caesar", Ross Prio, chauffeur and bodyguard of Mr. Accardo himself, and a Jack Cerone.

That afternoon, Kennedy asked the boys about their having met in years gone by at a restaurant called Algour's. The high class bistro went up in a mysterious million-dollar fire. Said Kennedy:

"Can you give us any explanation about the two arsonists who came into that restaurant and set it afire, held the people at gun fire (sic) and then set it afire?"

MR. PRIO took the Fifth Amendment, saying it would incriminate him to answer yes or no.

"Little Caesar," according to the testimony, was part of a restaurant association which Kennedy says took orders from Tony Accardo. Later, the committee counsel asked Mr. Caesar:

"Isn't it a fact that you could have an interest in that meat supply company and that that company supplies a good number of the restaurants and night clubs in the Chicago area?"

Kennedy referred to a C & B Meat Co.

"And isn't it correct that your associate in that company is Carlo Coleanni, who is a business agent for the barbers' union in Chicago?"

Then, turning to another of the three witnesses, Kennedy asked: "Mr. Cerone, we also understand that you were connected with the trade association that was to work with unions, that was formed in 1952 and 1953."

Later Kennedy listed some other local union officials who went to the gay July Fourth lawn parties thrown by the social arbiter of the underworld, Mr. Accardo.

The point, therefore, is that some labor is always on the agenda of the crime conventions. Does no one care?

Quick But Not Simple

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

On TV screens around the country President Kennedy's news conferences look quick and simple. They're quick. But they are not simple.

He's now had six meetings with the press, enough to show at least this much: He follows a deliberate pattern which he established himself; and his technique, much more subtle, is still developing.

This is the pattern: From the very beginning Kennedy, who won election by a squeak, has used his news conferences to get across an impression of himself as a man in motion.

Example: The series of announcements he makes at the start of each conference.

Wednesday there were eight, ranging from plans for a White House reception to orders he has given to relieve hardship among Indian and Eskimo children. All could have been announced by his press secretary, Pierre Salinger.

By doing this himself Kennedy stays in the public eye as a very busy President. He is, indeed, busy as his various programs and messages testify.

The news conference announcements, even though many are of secondary importance, add to the total impression.

His technique:

He handles himself easily, fluidly, and fluently. He's relaxed. He's relaxed because he did his homework, knows what he's talking about, took the trouble to inform himself before confronting questioners.

Two hallmarks of President Eisenhower's news conferences were vagueness and generalities. This was particularly true in his early White House days. Kennedy at most times is specific.

Ever since, because of his lifetime in the Army, didn't know government details well when he took office. Kennedy has an advantage here: Because of his 14 years in Congress, he knows government pretty much inside out.

A good example of Kennedy's specific knowledge was in his statements Wednesday on federal aid to education. But his technique began to show a change Wednesday. The best example, again, was on federal aid to education.

While Eisenhower rambled, Kennedy usually has been direct and terse. Wednesday he was for the most part direct but less terse. He not only explained his thinking on federal aid at great length, but did it repeatedly.

It looked like a deliberate, planned effort to educate the public, through press and radio, on the problem as he sees it. That, while federal aid to public schools is needed, similar aid to parochial schools hits constitutional blocks.

This change in technique—long explanation which took up a lot of time — gave newsmen less chance to ask varied questions and cover more ground. The result, from a news standpoint, was pretty dull.

That ought to give Kennedy something to chew on. He can defeat his purpose—educating the public on his viewpoint—if, by long explanations, he winds up diminishing public interest in what he has to say.

All Alone

Few inhabited places are more remote and lonely than the South Atlantic islands of Tristan da Cunha.

Recently, the islanders learned that a small atomic bomb had been exploded secretly and harmlessly only 60 miles away in a Project Argus test of the United States in August 1958. This information came to them by chance in a letter from a newspaper reporter.

But the news was not tardy by Tristan da Cunha's standards. At the turn of the century, a letter mailed to Tristan, the main island, arrived 12 years later. World War I was almost over before the islanders knew it had started.

The islands were discovered by a Portuguese mariner, Tristao da Cunha, in 1506. Since then, their remoteness has made them fascinating to outsiders and Tristan has gained fame as the "loneliest island in the world."

There are five islands in the group, which lies midway between South America and South Africa.

Long ago in Wales foxglove tea was recommended for weak hearts. It was many years later that scientists discovered that leaves of the foxglove plant contained digitalis, a heart stimulant.

Aid For All Schools

By David Lawrence

The Religious Issue Is Back Again

Is President Kennedy leaning over backward to avoid political repercussions from the so-called religious issue? If so, he is really being fair to millions of Catholic citizens—many of whom voted for him in the last election — when he refuses to include in aid-to-education legislation any provision for construction loans to private and parochial schools?

Many members of the Catholic Church feel he is not giving them a square deal. Rep. John W. McCormack, (D-Mass.), leader of the House and himself a Catholic, differs with the President and courageously endorses a federal loan program for all private schools.

News dispatches tell of a meeting of vice cardinals and ten bishops and archbishops in Washington a few days ago, who let it be known that they intend to continue to urge federal loans at low-interest rates for construction of private schools irrespective of whether such schools teach Protestant or Catholic religious doctrines.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., leader of the Senate, reported after a breakfast meeting of congressional leaders at the White House this week that President Kennedy nevertheless stands firm against aid to parochial and private elementary and secondary schools on the ground that it is unconstitutional.

No explanation is forthcoming, on the other hand, as to why the President considers it is constitutional for the federal government to extend financial aid to students in sectarian colleges and to pay directly to such colleges or universities a "cost of education allowance" of $350 a year for each scholarship holder in attendance.

If these grants of federal funds are constitutional, just why are construction loans, which have no possible connection with religious teaching, barred by the President?

REP. MCCORMACK put it this way in a radio-television interview with Sen. Kenneth Keating on Sunday last:

"There are other religious schools besides parochial schools — there are Lutheran schools and other religions have schools and they should... They have them in order to give a complete and full education to the communicants..."

"There is certainly no constitutional question involved in the federal government making long-term loans at reasonable rates of interest for the construction or the renovation or the repair of private schools."

"We're helping our educational system and certainly when we put through a bill to help the public schools it has an unintentional effect upon the private-school system. It makes it more difficult for them (the private schools) to operate and function. I would clearly and definitely say that the provision of that kind (of aid) is justified, and I would support it."

Both Mr. McCormack and Sen. Keating made the point that there are also private schools which "have no sectarian connection."

It has often been argued that the parents of children who go to religious schools should send them to public schools. If this ever happens, it would suddenly increase the taxes of all citizens by huge amounts.

ON THIS POINT, a letter from a high-ranking member of the faculty of a Catholic College in the Middle West to this correspondent a few days ago, says:

"I myself attended public high school and in my lectures I have made it plain that Catholics gladly support the public system, as they have been doing — provided that they will not be taxed out of existence and by penalties excluded from their constitutional rights because they used a constitutional right to support a separate educational system."

"Calculating costs, the Catholic system saves the taxpayers generally about $2 billion annually in salary and maintenance and more than $6 billion in buildings."

"Its 5.15 million actually enrolled students throughout the nation would need a minimum of 130,000 more teachers if the Catholic children all attended public schools. Children who are good enough to die rect subsidy to the schools, which is both unconstitutional and dangerous to free education but children who are good enough to die for their country later should not be denied the constitutional tax credit, scholarship, loans, or subsidiary benefits to them as citizens."

PRESIDENT KENNEDY will be urged to remove his opposition and let the courts decide what is or is not constitutional, especially when previous decisions actually have upheld certain forms of aid to church schools, such as student grants under the "GI Bill of Rights" and payment of transportation expenses for students.

Also, in many states church schools even participate in the school-lunch programs which are provided by the states, together with the federal government, from public funds.

Where state laws do not permit this, private schools can participate directly in the federal program under a matching-fund arrangement.

Politicians are discussing the effect in the next election of the Kennedy stand on the school question. It is being suggested that Richard Nixon, if he had been elected, would not have taken the same position that Mr. Kennedy has just adopted on construction loans for private schools.

Birth Announcement

By Truman Twill

Whatever happened last Fall to make things turn out this way in the Spring is unknown and unknowable. But arrival of the spring lambs is spotty.

Instead of being born in bunches the way they've always been before, the blessed event at this writing is limited to one lone pair of twins. These have been in the lamb nursery so long they are acting as if they had taken out a lease on the accommodations. There is no point in moving them out, though, until the nurses is needed for other new arrivals to dry their baby fleeces and learn the nursing angles.

It's not as easy as a non-sheep might think it is — this being a spring lamb.

Like the other day when things went haywire and the curtain was coming down in a hurry.

It started, apparently, when the girl twin squeezed out of the nursery sometime during the day. When the shepherd got home from the hills, she was at the far end of the bar, lost and complaining. Her mother was yelling at her helplessly from inside the nursery, and she was yelling back.

Her boy brother was neglected during this fracas, because when his condition finally was noticed he had gone into dying flitting-glories. He was having the shakes, his mouth and tongue were cold and his eyes were glazed.

Cow's milk was warmer and administered to him out of a plastic squeeze bottle in front of an electric heater while massage was administered. He was too weak to do anything about it, and the rescue squad wrote him off.

In the meantime, a more pressing matter, a mother butts away a disowned lamb until it learns to be afraid of her. So with the boy twin doing a pass-out in front of the heater and the girl twin getting the get-out treatment, it looked as if the first returns on the 1961 lamb crop would be blank.

But it's never possible to be sure. Animal responses are not as easy to detect as human responses. The warm cow's milk had an effect, after all, though most of it missed its mark. The measures taken to restore the scent of the disowned lamb also paid off sometime during the night.

The next morning, the lamb given up for dead was tottering about with enough strength to get his share of where-withal. His sister, thanks to persistence and perhaps by some flubdubbery to confuse her old lady's sense of smell, was in business, too.

That's the beginning of the spring lambing, recorded here according to a promise made a fortnight ago. It seems there are readers who don't take Spring seriously until the lambs have begun to arrive at the Twillery. Fact is, the Twillery feels that way about it.

When you lope out to the sheep barn to take a look-around, you hear the peepers in the marsh, or a cardinal's wolf whistle from atop the linden or the baby wail of a new lamb staggering around on ridiculous little patent leather hooves. That's Spring! Even if snow falls the next day, Summer isn't far behind.

The magnifying glass is the simplest form of the microscope.

Dog Pound Completed

Tightened Check Due On Strays In Hancock County

Hancock County's two new dog wardens will begin collecting stray animals on a more enforced basis beginning Friday with the completion of the new $6,220 dog pound at Pughtown.

Commissioner William C. Graham of Chester said a tight check will be maintained in the future by the dog wardens in an effort to rid the county of stray animals.

An "open house" will be held at the new pound along Gas Valley Rd. Saturday and Sunday afternoons, Graham said. The cement block structure was erected by Robert C. Finley, Chester contractor.

Stray animals will be kept for a five-day period and then gassed if not claimed. The animals will be "rotated" in five pens of the pound and once they have been removed from the fifth pen the strays are doomed to death by carbon monoxide fumes.

Graham said a water device has been installed at the pound to provide a painless death for the strays. Carbon monoxide fumes passed through water before being sniffed by the animals prevents their blood vessels from bursting in the elimination process, he pointed out.

Graham emphasized that all dogs six months or older are required to wear valid registration tags at all times. The dogs impounded will be kept in custody, housed and fed for five days after notice of seizure has been given or posted.

If not redeemed, the dog shall be sold or destroyed. Costs and fees shall be assessed against every dog seized and impounded by the dog wardens in the amounts of $2 for seizing and delivering to the pound and 50 cents each for serving or posting notices to owners and housing and feeding per day.

Dog licenses are being sold at various sites in Chester, Newell, New Cumberland and Weirton, and by the dog wardens, John Biela and John Coleman. The tags are $1 for each male or spayed female or $2 for each unspayed female.

Graham said a master list of all owners who purchase dog licenses will be prepared soon and the tag numbers of strays collected will be compared with the master list to obtain the names of the owners.

The pound has been equipped with all necessary facilities. Two telephones have been installed. The numbers are Evergreen 7-1873 for Chester and Newell residents and the Weirton number is Weirton 5551, the commissioner said.

A two-way radio will be installed in the pound this week. The two wardens will work separate shifts, from 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. and from 3 to 11 p. m.

Graham said cats, birds, goats and other animals unwanted will be impounded at the requests of residents.

Judge Tobin said utilization of the work camp would eliminate the need to send certain offenders to the Boys Industrial School, permitting rehabilitation on a local level away from company of more hardened youths.

Tentative plans call for facilities for 15 youths, delinquent or semi-delinquent, between 14 and 18 years old.

The camp would provide a half-day of school and a half-day of work in the woods, planting trees or in other outdoor labor. Manual training would be provided if funds were available.

The average stay would not be less than two months or more than six, Judge Tobin said, depending on the adaptability of the youths.

Cost of establishing the camp would be about $20,000, but would depend upon an expert's estimate.

Plans call for a staff of three, including a couple to supervise the program and reside at the camp. Area facilities, such as school, physician and psychologist, should be utilized.

The camp should have barracks-like structures with two rooms that could be locked. No maximum security rooms or cells would be built — any youth requiring such punishment facilities would be withdrawn.

Area organizations have been asked to report on their opinion on such a proposed camp.

A questionnaire survey of county organizations to determine attitudes regarding a proposed juvenile work camp, has been launched by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin of East Liverpool.

A Madison Township site has been offered by the Fraternal Order of Police Associates for the camp program which is being studied by the county commissioners.

Judge Tobin Starts Survey On Proposed Juvenile Camp

A questionnaire survey of county organizations to determine attitudes regarding a proposed juvenile work camp, has been launched by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin of East Liverpool.

A Madison Township site has been offered by the Fraternal Order of Police Associates for the camp program which is being studied by the county commissioners.

Judge Tobin said utilization of the work camp would eliminate the need to send certain offenders to the Boys Industrial School, permitting rehabilitation on a local level away from company of more hardened youths.

Tentative plans call for facilities for 15 youths, delinquent or semi-delinquent, between 14 and 18 years old.

The camp would provide a half-day of school and a half-day of work in the woods, planting trees or in other outdoor labor. Manual training would be provided if funds were available.

The average stay would not be less than two months or more than six, Judge Tobin said, depending on the adaptability of the youths.

Cost of establishing the camp would be about $20,000, but would depend upon an expert's estimate.

Plans call for a staff of three, including a couple to supervise the program and reside at the camp. Area facilities, such as school, physician and psychologist, should be utilized.

The camp should have barracks-like structures with two rooms that could be locked. No maximum security rooms or cells would be built — any youth requiring such punishment facilities would be withdrawn.

Area organizations have been asked to report on their opinion on such a proposed camp.

ated Speerhas' driver's license and said he will send it to the Pennsylvania Bureau of Motor Vehicles with a suggestion that it be suspended.

"I'm going to do something I've never done before," the judge told Speerhas. In such cases in the past, he has suspended an out-of-state driver's right to operate an auto in Ohio, which does not affect use of the license in the driver's home state.

"I'm going to take your license and send it to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles in Pennsylvania and ask that it suspend your license," the judge said.

"I don't think you should be driving a car at all."

In examination by police shortly after the crash, Speerhas said he left a St. Clair Ave. tavern a few moments before the wreck. He said he had consumed six bottles of beer. Speerhas told the judge he has been unemployed since he was discharged from the Navy in July.

and loss of wages, brick, tile and allied clay products industries throughout their district face a similar situation if terms of the Gore Amendment and Internal Revenue Service rulings are allowed to remain in effect.

He called the federal government's action "discriminatory" and "unfair."

The problem dates back to 1954, when the Internal Revenue Code was amended to provide for tax allowances. Legislation then provided a tax allowance retroactive to 1951.

But the tax advantage was canceled last fall and firms became responsible for repaying the allowances, retroactive to 1951. The cement industry also must repay, but it was given a more liberal allowance.

National Clay Pipe Manufacturers have asked supplemental remedial legislation to aid their industry. American Vitrified also has a plant at Lisbon.

Earlier, the Twin Cities Chamber of Commerce at Uhrichsville-Dennison asked similar action in telegrams to President Kennedy and other federal officials and congressmen. In that area's clay industries, 1,300 are unemployed out of a total work force of 2,025, with a loss of $478,000 monthly in payrolls.

COLUMBUS — A television camera was a silent witness at an Ohio Senate committee hearing Wednesday. Its testimony could pave the way for news photographers to cover court trials.

The Senate Judiciary Committee was hearing a proposed constitutional amendment to require that Ohio trials be open to the public. It is sponsored by the committee chairman, Sen. Fred Hofman (R-Cincinnati).

Many news media are interested in the proposal because it could relax the restrictions of Canon 35 of the judicial ethics laid down by the Ohio Supreme Court. Canon 35 absolutely prohibits photographs in court trials.

Newmen and Hoffman believe that the constitutional amendment would replace the outright prohibition with discretionary authority for a judge to permit photographs if he felt they would not interfere with the administration of justice.

One of the arguments advanced by newsmen is that modern photographic equipment is so advanced it can be used in a courtroom with no one but the judge aware of its presence. It would not, therefore, detract from the dignity of the proceedings, they say. To help prove the point, Sen. J. Sherman Porter (D-Gallipolis) arranged with members of the Ohio Association of Broadcasters, to record on television video tape part of Wednesday's hearing. Porter is a radio newscaster and a former newspaperman.

When Porter revealed the hidden equipment, the committee members were startled. But the camera proved its point by working in complete silence even when it was moved from its hiding place into the open hearing room.

Nevertheless, some committee members had doubts. Sens. Donald C. Steiner (R-Canton), Kenneth F. Berry (R-Coshocton), and

Kennedy's Nod To Nkrumah Weighed As Diplomatic Gain

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. strategists held cautious hopes today that President Kennedy made a diplomatic gain with his special hospitality toward Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah.

Kennedy personally went to the airport Wednesday for the first time to welcome a foreign visitor — and it was Nkrumah who got this red carpet treatment.

During 1½ hours at the White House, Kennedy talked to Nkrumah about world affairs and showed him the living quarters of the executive mansion, where he introduced Mrs. Kennedy and daughter Caroline.

Nkrumah left Washington later in the evening aboard a U. S. military transport plane for New York. From there he planned to fly today to the British Commonwealth prime ministers meeting in London.

Hopeful signs were seen here both in Nkrumah's apparent pleasure at his reception and in the views he has expressed during his U. S. stay this time, more moderate than when he attended the U. N. General Assembly session in New York last fall. Then Secretary of State Christian A. Herter pictured the African leader as leaning toward the Communists.

While U. S. foreign policy makers are still cool to some of Nkrumah's proposals, they view with general approval his desire for support of the United Nations, strengthening U. N. forces in the Congo, keeping the cold war out of the Congo and use of troops from uncommitted nations as the U. N. military garrison there.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: This problem involves a father and his 9-year-old son.
Bobby is an orderly boy and very seldom leaves his bike or sports equipment lying about. His father is a demon for perfection and the child has learned to be almost perfect in self-defense.

Our home is not large, so we have a toy box in the garage. The other day Bobby put a couple of his toy trucks in the opposite corner of the garage, not in the toy box. His father came home, saw the trucks in the wrong place and broke them to pieces. Then he brought the broken trucks into the house and said: "This is what happens to toys that aren't put away properly."

The boy was heart-broken and my husband would not let me console him when he cried. What do you think of this? — A MOTHER.

Dear Mother: Children should be taught to be orderly but your husband has a mean streak a mile long and a yard wide. He could have accomplished the same thing had he brought the trucks into the house and said: "These trucks were not in their proper place. You may not play with them for a week."

Rebellious Slave

Dear Ann: The mother of five children whose husband wants her to go out and get a job hit me where I live.
I was one of those wives who went to work because we couldn't manage on one pay check. After a few years I kept at it because I wanted the extras that two checks could supply.

Now that my husband is making good money and could support us nicely, he won't let me quit. Whenever I mention resigning, he starts scanning the want ads for "a better - paying job."

I must come straight home after work because there are so many things to do. He comes home whenever he feels like it, so naturally I've become a first-class nag.

The price of two pay checks in our home was a happy marriage. — NO WAY OUT.

Dear No: Don't say there's no way out merely because you don't have the courage to take it. Give your boss notice and tell your husband that you have decided to stay at home and live on what he makes.

Expensive Luxuries

Dear Ann: I'm a newspaperman who handles your copy. The other day I came across the letter from the guy who thought his wife should get a job so they could have some "little luxuries." Let me tell you those "little luxuries" are likely to be the most expensive things he ever got hooked up with.

Newell Post-Prom Group Discusses Party Activities

Plans for after-prom activities were outlined when the Post-Prom Organization of Wells High School met Tuesday night in the school in Newell. Nineteen attended.

The group decided to serve a hot buffet luncheon to students in the diningroom of the Waterford Park clubhouse. Entertainment and dancing will follow in the clubhouse ballroom.

These events will follow the annual Junior-Senior Prom May 26 in the school gymnasium.

Chairmen named by William Wurzel, president, include Mrs. Mae Hupp, kitchen; Mrs. Violet Miller, decorations; and Paul Rayburn, clean-up.

Mrs. Hupp and Mrs. Gatchell

If his wife hasn't worked before she'll be lucky to earn $30 a week. By the time she's paid for lunches, the new clothes she'll have to buy and the maid to stay with the children, she'll be bringing home about $20 a week. When income tax time rolls around the guy who enjoys "the little luxuries" will have to pay on the $60 she earned, not the $20 she got home with.

My wife worked for the first 12 years of our marriage, in between three children. Since she decided to quit she's healthier, happier, more cheerful, a better housekeeper and a better companion.

She's thrown herself into Girl Scout work and loves it. She has plenty of time for the children and they are delighted. For $20 a week you can't find a better bargain. — ONLY BREADWINNER.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

were named to complete plans for a skating party to raise prom funds. Harry R. Bell reported on distribution of tickets for another fund-raising project.

The next meeting is March 21 in the high school to decide on after-prom entertainment. All parents of juniors and seniors are to attend.

Power Firm Issues Warning On Dangers Of Flying Kites

A seasonal campaign to promote safety among kite flyers was launched today by the Ohio Power Co., which also issued a warning to adults and youngsters about outside work or play involving metal equipment.

Posters listing safety precautions to be followed by children flying kites are being distributed to schools, scout groups and other youth organizations in the area. W. A. Black, district manager, said.

Black urged youngsters to fly their kites in open spaces away from electrical wires and other obstructions. Parents should warn their children not to use any metal in construction of the kite, and not use wire or tinsel cord for the kite string.

Kites should not be flown in wet weather when the string can become a conductor of electricity, and children should be cautioned not to climb poles or trees to retrieve a kite, he said.

"Electricity is just as safe as the person using it," Black pointed out, warning extreme care should be taken to see that metal equipment is kept far away from electrical wires.

Many people are injured by using metal ladders to install TV antennas and operating well diggers, cranes and other equipment around wiring, Black said.

When erecting TV antennas or other aerials, care should be taken to place them where they will clear all power lines in case they are blown down or fall accidentally. Equal care should be used with guy wires and lead-ins.

City League Stars Nipped By Canton In Overtime, 72-68

For 7th Grade Crown

Ogilvie's Top Dawson's, 21-16

Ogilvie's, which had to pull a big upset to gain the finals, wore the Seventh Grade championship crown today after outlasting Dawson's for a 21-16 victory in a Little Potters League title game Wednesday night at the M.A. The new champs gained their edge in the second half after a nip-and-tuck battle in the first and second periods. Ogilvie's led at the first quarter mark, 10-7, but Dawson's trimmed it to one point — 10-9—at halftime. Dawson's fell behind, 14-10, at the end of the third quarter and failed to catch up in the final period. Roy Scott and Chuck Winters paced Ogilvie's to the championship with eight and seven points, respectively. Scott converted four out of four free throws. For Dawson's, Jumpin' Danny Roach scored eight points in a losing cause. Ogilvie's received the tourney trophy and Curran's was presented a trophy for winning the loop title. Ogilvie's was coached by Frank Bennett.

Wellsville, Bellaire Shed Wraps For Battle Tonight

It's Wellsville's and Bellaire's turn to step into the spotlight of the District Cage tournament at New Concord tonight at 8 after Cambridge opened the action with a 69-61 win over New Philly Wednesday night at the Muskingum Gym. Cambridge will sit back and watch the outcome of tonight's game and then meet the winner on Saturday in the District finals. The survivor at New Concord will continue on the tournament trail to Regional action at Columbus. The victory Wednesday sent Cambridge's record to 17-4. Coach Jack McDevitt sends Bob Kiggins, Steve Baldwin, Phil Baldwin, Rod Ferguson and Roger Ours against Bellaire Big Red tonight. The Tigers have a definite height advantage as they enter tonight's contest with 13 wins and 7 defeats. Bellaire, just barely over a 500 season, is 11-10. It's the first visit to the District tournament by Wellsville since 1954 while Bellaire was there in 1956. If Wellsville can keep going in tournament play, Kiggins, who now rates as the second all-time scorer in Wellsville's history, needs only 59 points to tie Dan Baldwin for the lead. Kiggins has 1,096 while Baldwin holds the mark with 1,155. In last night's District tourney game, Cambridge gained its edge in the fourth quarter after three quarters of nip-and-tuck basketball. Cambridge led by one point at each quarter mark, 11-10, 33-32 and 47-46. Jones tossed in 21 and Merrill 18 to pace the winners. Collegians Notch Edge At Foul Line

The Canton Collegians came from eight points behind in the third quarter to edge an East Liverpool City League All-Star team, 72-68, in an overtime battle Wednesday night at Memorial Auditorium. The contest was the feature attraction of the Little Potters annual benefit night attended by some 700 fans. East Liverpool led by comfortable margins at each quarter post, but couldn't stave off a late drive by the Canton five which ended in a 68-63 tie at the end of regulation time. Tom Shaffer, a 6-foot-4 product of Alliance High, and Roco Macri, formerly of Ohio University, dropped in a field goal each in the overtime session as the local All-Stars went scoreless in the extra period. The Locals took a 17-14 lead at the end of the first period, then, paced by an eight-point second quarter from Miles Witchey, moved in front 35-26 margin at halftime. Bevo Francis tossed in six points to lead a third quarter attack which pushed East Liverpool in front, 55-47. Deadly foul shooting by the Collegians which showed throughout the contest, paid off in the fourth quarter. The All-Stars outgassed Canton, 28-24, but the Collegians made 24 of 29 free throws. In the fourth quarter, the visitors dropped in 13 of 16 attempts with Don Siff, an ex-Ohio U. star, hitting six-for-six. Canton moved ahead in the last minute of the game, but a goal by Bevo Francis and a foul by Bill Thornberry tied the count. Pacing the collegians who now have won 24 while losing two, were Siff with 17 points and John Namceiu, an All-Ohio player last season who tossed in 16. Witchey with 17 points was tops for the City League Stars while Francis added 14 and Ted Robinson 12. Proceeds from the game will be used for the maintenance and supervision of a present outdoor basketball court at Thompson Park and toward the construction of a new court. Lucas Eyes Rebounding Title In Big 10 Finale

CHICAGO (AP) — Ohio State's Jerry Lucas will have a chance Saturday to capture the Big Ten's rebounding crown, about the only Big Ten basketball title not yet determined. 214. The Hoosiers wind up at home against Michigan Saturday. Illinois is the team rebound leader with 660 to Ohio State's 655. Ohio appears to have the scoring crown in the bag with an average of 85.5 points to 76.4 for second place Illinois. The Buckeyes' lead is built on a field goal accuracy of 49.9 per cent, which tops the record of 49.7 they set last year. Iowa, battling for second place at Northwestern Saturday, has the league's best defensive record, holding opponents to 61.3 points a game. Ohio State is next at 64.5. Purdue's Terry Dischinger seems a cinch for individual scoring honors, entering the finale against Wisconsin with a 29.5 average. Lucas is second with 24.5, while his teammates, John Havlicek, 15.4, and Larry Siegfried and Mel Nowell, 14.5 each, rank ninth, 13th and 14th.

No Banquets, No Weight; McCovey Reports In Shape

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Willie McCovey feels he ate himself out of a job after 1959 when he won rookie-of-the-year honors with the San Francisco Giants. "I went to two and three banquets a week after that first season," he says. "And I really put on weight. "After I had a bad year last season, I wasn't invited to so many dinners so I had a chance to keep my weight down. Even if I had been invited to a lot of them, I wouldn't have gone." Willie, 23, showed he'd learned the eating lesson when he checked into the Giants spring training camp at 202 pounds compared with 220 a year ago. He's been impressive at bat these days, belting balls over both the right and left field fences. "I feel 100 per cent better this spring," he said. "I'm not sluggish and can run with ease. That extra work hurt my legs and I had a pulled muscle last spring. My right knee had been operated on the year before and I think all the weight made it hurt. Now I'm working out without even a wrap on the knee and it feels good."

Ohio Fairs To Share In Race Track Pools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's 92 county and independent fairs this year will share $657,350 collected by the state from the half of one per cent deduction from pari-mutuel pools at thoroughbred and harness race tracks in 1960. State Auditor James A. Rhodes said the amounts will range from a minimum of $2,500 to be received by 21 fairs to $60,000 for the Ohio State Fair. Depending on the scope of their racing programs, 24 others will receive $5,500 each, and 47 will get $8,734. The State Fair allocation will be the nucleus for added-money harness stakes for 2- and 3-year-old trotters and pacers.

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Doyce Filiere, 49, "Mr. Basketball" in northwestern Ohio high school ranks, resigned Wednesday as coach at Eastwood Consolidated High. He will remain as a faculty member and athletic director. Health and coaching pressure were attributed by friends for the resignation, ending a career in which Filiere's teams in 16 years at Troy Luckey and three years at Eastwood won 343 games and lost 82. Kentucky, Vanderbilt In Playoff For Berth

By DON WEISS Associated Press Sports Writer Adolph Rupp, Kentucky's baron of basketball, sends his rallying Wildcats against Vanderbilt tonight in a bid to enter the NCAA championships for a record 12th time. Kentucky, which did an incredible turnaround after winning but 8 of its first 15 games, and Vanderbilt meet on the University of Tennessee's neutral court at Knoxville in a play-off to determine the team the Southeastern Conference will send into the NCAA tournament. The winner will advance to the semifinals of the NCAA regional tournament at Louisville March 17 to play the eventual winner of a first-round clash March 14 between Morehead's Ohio Valley Conference play-off champs and an at-large team, either Xavier of Ohio or Chicago Loyola. It could bring together the SEC designate and Ohio State's mighty Buckeyes who also will play in the Midwest regional the 17th and 18th. In the Ivy League, Penn may have caught Princeton's league champs looking ahead to their NCAA Eastern regional meeting with George Washington in New York next Tuesday. Penn, with Sid Amira scoring 23 points and Bob Mikvy 21, crushed the Tigers, 83-63 to clinch second place. Greg Heath's tip-in with two seconds left gave Brown a 79-77 triumph over Dartmouth and enabled the Bruins to share third place with Yale, which was upset by Harvard 67-63. Cornell, winding up with a 14-10 record, went out of the league and established a school single-game mark by crushing Syracuse 107-79. Duquesne, a tournament hopeful but uninvited, wound up with a

Liston Would Like Crack At Heavy Crown

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sonny Liston, the No. 1 ranked heavyweight contender, said today he is willing to fight either Floyd Patterson or Ingemar Johansson for nothing as long as the title is at stake.

"From the way Cus D'Amato (Patterson's manager) talks, I guess I'll never get Patterson," said the 27-year-old Philadelphia heavyweight after he had knocked out Howard King of Reno in 53 seconds of the third round Wednesday night at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

"Johansson, I don't know about him," Liston said. "When he didn't have the title he said he would fight me. When he won it he wouldn't fight me. I don't know how he would feel if he wins this time."

Liston, winner of 32 of 33 pro fights and 25 in a row, predicted that Patterson would knock out Johansson inside of five rounds when they meet Monday night for the third time.

Liston, about 10 pounds over his normal weight at 219½ pounds, dropped the 204-pound King for a count of nine in the second. He floored him for the 10-count in the third with a right to the head. It was Liston's first fight in six months.

Lack of shoes didn't bother Indian Maid when she won the Columbian Handicap at Hialeah. The Florida-bred mare ran seven furlongs barefooted, an unusual racing feat.

Pirates Open Exhibition Season Friday With Reds

By The Associated Press
The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates are one of four teams that open the 1961 exhibition season Friday. They meet the Cincinnati Reds at Tampa, while the Detroit Tigers face the Chicago White Sox at Sarasota.

All clubs, including the Arizona and California trainees, are in action Saturday.

The majors' unsigned list continues to dwindle. Pancho Herrera, who says, "I no hit so many home runs, but I no strikeout so much either," arrived from Cuba, signed with the Philadelphia Phils, and promptly belted two homers during drill.

Other homer-hitters Wednesday in squad games included Wally Moon of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Ozzie Virgil, Jake Wood and George Thomas of the Tigers, Del Rice of the Los Angeles Angels and Walt Dropo of the Baltimore Orioles.

Pitchers turning in top efforts included Roger Graig of the Dodgers, Art Dittmar and Ryne Duren of the Yankees and Bob Miller and Ray Sadecki of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Manager Alvin Dark of the San Francisco Giants temporarily lost a shortstop and a former shortstop to injuries, and Manager Al Lopez of the White Sox almost lost his second catcher this week.

San Francisco Giant shortstop Eddie Bressoud pulled a groin muscle attempting a double play, and outfielder Harvey Kuenn, one-time American League shortstop, suffered a muscle spasm in the right knee. Both will miss Saturday's exhibition opener with the Cleveland Indians.

White Sox catcher Bob Roselli stepped on a bat and limped into the clubhouse, but the diagnosis was only a mild sprain. Previously, catcher Camilo Carreon had four stitches taken in the index finger of his right hand.

The Pirates had two veterans back from the injured list. First baseman Rocky Nelson, hit in the face with a pitched ball on Tuesday, and Gene Baker, who had a bad knee, were able to work out.

Midland Sportsmen Set Shoot Sunday

Three events will feature the Midland Sportsmen Club shoot which begins Sunday at noon at the range near Midland Heights. The non-registered trap shoot will include 50, 16-yard targets, 50 handicap targets and 25 paired doubles. Cash awards will be made and food and refreshments will be served.

Beaver County Hunters Set Coon Trial Sunday

The Beaver County Coon Hunters will sponsor a coon dog field trial Sunday. Entries will close at 11:30 for the trial to be held at the Pine Run Saddle Club on Pennsylvania Route 68 at Unionville. The trial will feature a $100 final, $30 each for first line and $20 each for second line. Admission will be 50 cents for men.

In six years of coaching at LSU, Paul Dietzel's football teams show a 36-23-3 record.

By R. L. LIDE
I received a card in the mail recently from Richard Doak of Salem offering his services as a skin diver to make an underwater survey of the fish kill in our local state lakes.

Actually, I don't know if all the fish that have died of suffocation float to the surface or submerge to the bottom, but I have seen plenty floating.

I contacted Richard at his home. In discussing the situation, Dick has offered his services to farm pond owners as well.

Not only could his services be used to determine a fish kill, but also he could do visual surveys regarding the live fish. Maybe you pond owners would like to know if there are any big fish left in your pond. If so, get in touch with Dick by telephone, ED 2 5730. There are no charges for his services. Not only that but he has friends who do skin diving as well and it might take three or four to make the survey.

DON'T WORRY about these divers getting drowned or something occurring that would be grounds for any kind of legal action. Dick points out they will sign papers relieving the owner from any liability.

The temperature of the water means nothing to these divers and they were ready to go as soon as the ice went away. They wear insulated diving suits to keep comfortable. The water must be in the right condition before diving will be effective since visibility must be good. The decision should be left to the divers.

I intend to be present as often as possible when the divers go to work, since I would like to gain a little knowledge about a visual underwater survey.

How many times have you wished you could stick your head under water and look at the fish even if they won't bite? I often have wondered when out fishing how many big fish made a pass at my lure and decided it was not good to eat. Knowing big fish exist helps a lot even if you go home emptyhanded. You keep hoping for the time when you connect.

RUDY DROTFLEFF of Butler Township already has requested a survey of his pond to see if any of the trout stocked a couple of years ago exist.

Trout are more sensitive to underwater movements than bass or bluegills. In this case it will take one man to move around under water while two others do most of the looking while the trout take off towards the other end of the pond.

I also suggest that one of these advertised "fish callers" be used, the little battery-operated gadget that is supposed to imitate the sound of a buzzing insect. Even a short pole with a short line and a night crawler dangling off the end of a hook might be effective for bass when skin diving.

Whatever they would like to do in an experimental way could be enlightening. You can get in touch with me by phone at Damascus, JE 7 4842 and I will pass the word along and give all assistance possible.

By MARIE TORRE

Loudness Control For TV

Raucous television commercials, pitched louder than the entertainment portions of programs, constitute one of the crosses viewers must bear — being a condition set forth by the faultless networks.

It's been network practice to unhook a stream of engineering details which only an Einstein can understand when questioned on the subject, the gist of the explanations being that, technically, commercials are not really louder than the entertainment; they just seem that way.

DRIVEN by a tender conscience, if not the vexations timber in mail from complaining viewers over the years, NBC has come up with the invention of "a new and improved meter for loudness control."

Its chief purpose — to keep the sound volume in commercials in check — was ignored discreetly in the announcement by the NBC network which after all owes its existence to the commercials made and put on by advertisers.

"The project to devise an improved method of loudness control was initiated a little more than a year ago at the request of Ernest Lee Jahnce Jr., director, standards and practices," said the NBC announcement. "Mr. Jahnce termed the development of the loudness meter a significant step forward and 'another insurance of acceptability and good taste not only in what we say, but also in how we say it.'"

AND ISN'T ABC and CBS in taste in what they say and how they say it?

Since ABC neither has a gadget nor intends to invent or buy one, draw your own conclusions! As for CBS, the director of engineering there (Richard S. O'Brien) said that his network is, too, concerned about what viewers hear and for that reason they've been making use of the Automatic Gain Control Amplifier. For two years, it has been in use," said Mr. O'Brien.

"This instrument," said Mr. O'Brien, "helps us to equalize sound. When it is operated properly, it tends to point out the weaker portions, such as dialogue in drama or an announcement."

"We still have variations from day to day, week to week, but with this Automatic Gain Control Amplifier, the man in the control booth is aided in maintaining sound uniformity in a program. In the final analysis, it's all up to the man at the controls."

So it is with NBC's improved loudness control meter.

One of our engineer informants told of a recent incident in which the man in the control booth kept the volume on commercials so low that "viewers called the network to complain." A likely story!

WITH THE ADDITION of "Calvin and the Colonel" to its fall schedule, ABC will have at least three so-called "adult" animated cartoon series — certainly a misnomer in the case of the current "Flintstones."

The March 26 "Omnibus" program has undergone an odd time switch, from "The Hundred Years War Between the Sexes" to "An Omnibus of American Songs."

Ironically Loretta Young wins TV-Radio Mirror's "Star of the Year" award at a time when she's received a network cancellation for dwindling ratings.

TELEVISION received an unexpected vote of confidence from a British peer.

Lord St. Oswald, a lord-in-waiting (a government post in the royal household) said in a debate on broadcasting that television in Britain has resulted in a greatly increased sale of serious books and induced millions to think seriously about religion.

Lord St. Oswald added that television has brought the fine arts to people who previously had only a marginal acquaintance of them.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Five-Year-Old Writes About His Fears

The mother of a five-year-old boy took down the following story as he dictated it to her. "This is the story of a sad moose. There was once a moose. He was a sad moose. Everybody was afraid of him. When his wife, Mrs. Moose, discovered this, she was very sad. She ran away. When Little Moose discovered this, he was very sad and he ran away, too. One leading person, Baby Moose, did not run away. Mr. Moose was sad because the reason everybody was afraid of him was because he did not have ears like other mooses. Sister Moose ran away, too.

"MR. MOOSE went to another town. Everybody in this town was afraid of him, too. So he went to another town.

"Suddenly his ears grew like they were supposed to look and he looked like other mooses. Nobody was afraid of him.

"He went back to his first home and his family went with him, too. Everybody liked him and he wasn't sad any more. His family wasn't sad any more, either. "So that was the end of the sad moose."

In her letter the mother stated that this little boy was born with only one ear and a small nub for the other ear, but that surgery in process would correct this condition. She also enclosed another story dictated by this child, which was a happy story, "The Splendid Elf."

"Do Intermediate Grade Children Write About Their Problems?" is the title of a study reported by Dr. Neal R. Edmund ("Elementary English," April issue).

FIFTH AND SIXTH grade children, 64 in all, were asked to list five of more personal problems, things they worried about or feared. Later they were asked to write a composition on a topic of their own choice.

Problems most often named, in order of frequency, were failing school work, getting along with brothers or sisters, making and keeping friends, appearance, shyness and nervousness.

Only five of the 64 wrote about topics involving their frailties. Five wrote about matters reflecting their worries. Three wrote about some aspect of their fears.

The author concludes that these children did not give vent to their fears and worries through writing compositions in school.

Would they have been more likely to do so if they had dictated stories before entering school? My bulletins, "Beginnings of Imagination" and "Stimulate Your Child's Imagination," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

The population of Australia is 10,330,000. Men outnumber women by one per cent.

Wetzel, Bettis Sponsor Bill On Fair Jobs

The Review Correspondent COLUMBUS — Columbiana County's representatives introduced a bill in the General Assembly Tuesday to permit members and employees of county fair boards to serve simultaneously in public offices.

They said the bill is aimed at ending confusion and quarrels arising out of conflicting opinions handed down by attorneys general.

Former Atty. Gen. William Saxe ruled the two jobs are not in conflict, but present Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy ruled that they are. Some county officials in the state have been forced to resign from their fair board positions as a result.

The bill co-sponsored by Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel and J. Warren Bettis simply declares that county fair board members and employees are not public officials.

Wetzel said the law would resolve a current argument in Columbiana County over Republican Commissioner Galen Greisen's right to serve also on the Fair Board. Because of McElroy's ruling, his status has been questioned by Democratic Commissioner Frank Wilson.

In other legislative action, the senate passed, 37-1, a bill sponsored by Sen. Edmund A. Sargus, D-St. Clairsville, to require the sheriff's office to transport a state prisoner who has been subpoenaed to appear in court.

At present, the correctional institution must assign one of its guards to accompany the prisoner, but the expenses are paid by the county which has subpoenaed him.

Suit Filed To Block Urban Renewal Project

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Andrew W. McCullough has filed a taxpayer's suit to block expanding of the University of Akron, part of the city's proposed urban renewal project.

McCullough, who filed the suit Wednesday also on behalf of 100 other people who live near the university, claims the city falsely designated the area as "blighted and a slum" to qualify for urban renewal funds, a violation of due process of law.

West Point Meeting Set By Church Group

The Women's Missionary group of the West Beaver congregation of the Beaver Valley United Presbyterian Larger Parish will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. at the church near West Point.

Mrs. Regis Scharf, wife of the assistant pastor, will be hostess. The Rev. Frank Hare, pastor, will be leader of the church "What Is the Mission of the Church?"

Hookstown Firemen Acquire Truck

Demonstrated Saturday, the truck was purchased from the Patterson Township volunteer fire department for $700.

The fire department, Hookstown's first, had its charter approved Wednesday in a hearing before Beaver County Court.

Judge Morgan H. Sohn.

The department has some 56 members. First organization meetings were held in December. The truck is now being housed in the basement garage of Wright's Grocery. It will be moved temporarily to a building, next to the new Post Office, owned by Frasier.

Fires in the area may be reported by calling Frasier at CY. 3-2102; Willis Swearingen, Hookstown assistant fire chief, at CY. 3-2682, or Alvin Torrence, assistant chief for Greene Township, at CY. 3-4452. An assistant chief for Georgetown remains to be named.

Firemen will sponsor a fish supper Friday from 5 to 7:30 p. m. at the Hookstown Grange Hall with proceeds to aid the department.

Next meeting is March 17 in the Borough Building.

Earth Scattered On Street From Church Project

Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver said today the administration has taken steps to alleviate disrupted traffic conditions and muck-covered pavements on McKinnon and St. Clair Aves. caused by huge trucks hauling building materials to the site of the new Trinity United Presbyterian Church on Main Blvd.

The contractor has been asked to spread a heavy layer of ashes to help prevent the big trucks from picking up a thick accumulation of mud on their wheels on the building site and then scattering it along the two thoroughfares, he said.

In addition, the end of unsurfaced Maine Blvd. nearest McKinnon Ave. has been deeply rutted by the traffic, the director said. The trucks are hauling huge stones and other heavy materials for the project.

Street department workers are filling holes and scraping Maine Blvd. today to help alleviate the condition, the director said.

However, he asked the general public to refrain from use of that section of Maine Blvd., if possible, because of the condition of the street. Although the administration regrets the inconvenience to motorists and householders, it does not feel it should "stand in the way of progress" represented by construction of the new church, he said.

The director said the city will continue efforts to hold inconvenience to the public to a minimum through its own efforts and those of the contractor.

4-H News

Twenty-two attended a dinner meeting of the Seneca 4-H Club of Arroyo Tuesday night in Nessly Chapel on Route 66 south of Newell.

Members presented demonstrations and songs for the program. Oliver Johnson, Hancock County agricultural agent, screened slides of county 4-H activities.

Bonnie Geer read Scripture from Matt. 18:1-5. Devotions included singing of "The Old Rugged Cross" and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Members responded to roll call by naming a fruit or vegetable. Demonstrations were presented by Margaret Cecil, "Better Pastries," and "How to Stretch Animal Skins," by Benny Geer, whose project is animal trapping.

Myrtha Brown talked on "caring for rabbits and Elizabeth Cawthon on a health theme. A trio, Elizabeth Cawthon, Miss Brown and Margaret Cawthon, sang "I Believe."

Denny Geer, president, conducted business. The club voted to make tea towels for 4-H camp as a community project. The club is selling tickets for a skating party March 23 at the Hookstown roller rink.

A window display on the theme of "Better Lunches for Boys and Girls" has been arranged in the Newell Dry Cleaners in connection with the observance of National 4-H Week which ends Saturday.

The next meeting is April 4, Miss Martha Troop, leader, reported.

Stranded Dog Saves Self As Firemen Try

A black dog apparently saved itself Wednesday when it became frightened by attempts to rescue it from a ledge overlooking the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd. where it had been stranded since Saturday.

The dog, which leaped to a larger ledge when city firemen attempted to reach it with the aerial ladder, apparently made its own way off the ledge.

When members of the Liverpool West volunteer fire department and East Liverpool Humane Society checked the area near the waterfall late yesterday afternoon, they were unable to locate the animal.

City firemen were notified by the mayor's office shortly before 1 p. m. yesterday and took the aerial ladder truck to the site in an attempt to reach the stranded dog.

However, the animal would have nothing to do with their efforts, continuing to avoid their grasp finally jumping across the waterfall, onto a larger ledge, according to reports. Firemen then abandoned their efforts, returning to the station about 2 p. m.

Four volunteer firemen and four members of the Humane Society went to the site around 3 p. m. and searched in vain for the dog until about 5 p. m.

However, by reaching the larger ledge the dog apparently was able to walk up over the hill or make its way down onto the main road, they said.

Road crews from the State Highway Department said the dog had been on the ledge, some 100 feet above the highway, since Saturday afternoon when a rock slide occurred at the same location.

4 Schools Due Reduced Aid

Schools in three Columbiana County local districts and an exempted village will receive a total of $22,960 less in state aid this year, according to the Ohio Education Association at Columbus.

The OEA said a survey shows that a total of 346 districts will receive less state money even though the State Department of Education reports a $5,358,334 surplus in the current School Foundation Program appropriation. The OEA said this means 40 per cent of Ohio school districts will receive a total of $4,136,673 less.

The Southern Local School District will receive $9,038 less while the Fairfield - Waterford District will lose $7,267. Leetonia exempted village is scheduled to lose $3,848. Stanton Local is due to lose $2,807 from its state foundation allotment the report indicates.

The OEA said there are three main factors causing the loss. They are rising local tax valuations due to reappraisal; the School Foundation Program was not set high enough to appropriate all available funds to the districts, and the districts reorganized prior to a guarantee of no loss of state funds.

In Jefferson County, Steubenville will receive $23,231 less while Toronto will be cut $1,262.

Youths Give Program For Mt. Nebo Grange

LISBON — Ronald Wilhelm and the youth group gave the program for the Mt. Nebo Grange Wednesday night at the Grange Hall. There were 17 present and Charles L. Morlan, master, presided.

A stunt of making paper hats, acts by four groups, a reading by Mrs. Howard Wilhelm and group singing featured the program.

A discussion was held on visits of Granges to the County Home. Mt. Nebo, Perry, Salem and Willow Grove Granges will hold a vesper service at the Willow Grove Hall March 19, after a coverdish dinner at 1 p. m.

For Mt. Nebo's next meeting March 22, the Yellow Creek Grange will present the traveling clock and the program.

Highlandtown Firemen Enroll New Member

Roy Smith was accepted as a new member of the Highlandtown volunteer fire department at a meeting Wednesday night at the station in Yellow Creek Township.

Plans were made for a public dance March 30 at the Highlandtown School. A discussion was held on painting the floor of the station and spreading slag around the outside, according to Dale Rose, secretary.

Seventeen attended. Edwin Bettis, president, conducted business. The next meeting is March 22.

Mayors Of Hancock Attend State Meeting

Mayor Ray Collins of Chester and other Hancock County officials attended a statewide meeting at Charleston Wednesday in which Gov. W. W. Barron outlined his campaign to improve the state's physical appearance.

Gov. Barron asked co-operation of some 200 mayors at the meeting, and said "pride in our state can't be legislated." West Virginia is a potential top tourist attraction, he said, and must be kept tidy and neat to impress visitors from other states.

Rural Group To Meet

LISBON — A marketing program will be presented at the meeting of the Wayne Township Home Demonstration Group Wednesday from 10:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Clyde Pennell of Lisbon R.D. 1. Members are to bring a coverdish and table service.

Sen. Young Unleashes New Attack Against CD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, a frequent critic of the Office of Civil Defense, unleashed another volley Wednesday over a proposal to spend $494,000 in federal money to build a bomb shelter under the Oklahoma state capitol. Young called the plan hare-brained and added:

"No one has come up with a statement as to why the Soviet Union or any other potential enemy would fire missiles with nuclear warheads at the state capitol building in Oklahoma City. No doubt the hot and hungry hands of Civil Defense officials, as soon as this has been accomplished, will be reaching for more taxpayers' money to provide underground shelters below 49 other state capitols."

Chester Park Group To Hold Fish Dinner

Red Cross Completing Chester's Drive Plans

Plans are being completed for a house-to-house canvass of Chester and vicinity starting Sunday in the annual Red Cross Fund drive.

James Elliott of Chester urged drive captains to stress the 1961 theme, "Good things happen when you help."

C. C. Herron of Pughtown, chairman, said a program can be quickly put into operation if the necessary farm acreage information is on file in the county ASC office.

He asked farmers' co-operation in providing information that will be needed to launch the program. Interested farmers are to present their records of acreage of cropland used for field corn, grain, sorghums, oats, barley and other crops for 1959-60.

Best hitting streaks ever compiled as a Giant were turned in by Fred Lindstrom in 1930 and Don Mueller in 1955. Both hit safely in 24 straight games.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Mental Gymnastics Help Trim Pounds

"What is the most beautiful way to lose ten excess pounds and keep them off?" a reader inquires.

Cheers! This intelligent woman is not insistent on a "crash" program to lose a fat 10 pounds. She aims to get on the happy road to weight control. All those interested in becoming slimmer, lithe and lovely, tune in...

Start off with some mental gymnastics...leap over the wall of habit! Tackle the habit of inertia. To be beautiful, bodies must be used and circulation roused. Muscles should pull and be released. If you feel down in the dumps and a bit bulky...stretch to banish boredom...and bulges.

Turn on a tune if you wish...music lifts the spirits. Try a free-wheeling stretch.

POSITION: Stand erect, feet apart, arms down at sides.

Movement: Swing both arms toward right and up. Swing arms down and toward the left and up. Now, up toward the right again and this time add an extra lift...reach with all of you, pulling slim from tip to toe. Swing back in the other direction and again add that extra reach. You'll feel slimmer at the end of this stretch routine.

Follow through with a side-bend. Standing, feet apart, arms stretched overhead, fingers locked, palms up. Look up. Now bend slowly toward the left, hold for a few seconds, then bend to the right.

Stretching, coupled with side-bending makes for slim suppleness. Well, maybe you don't feel supple at first, or slim either...but you will. Exercise is fun and freeing...resistance to exercise is mainly mental. Start...and the stretch impulse finishes itself.

If you are rusty on exercise, five to ten minutes a day will be enough for the beginner.

Lack of exercise is back of creeping poundage. With only ten pounds to lose, regular exercise can do more than diet toward improving your figure.

Walking is invigorating. You come back from a walk feeling fresher than when you started out. So, put on your shoes with wings on...almost. Start walking a mile a day, then make it a mile and a half. In 30 minutes of walking, you burn 150 calories.

BACK TO MENTAL gymnastics. Don't leap to the conclusion that moderate, healthful exercise will give you a ravenous appetite.

You'll have a keener enjoyment of food, but moderate exercise does not enlarge your food capacity. Boredom banished, you'll have more zest.

Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for "Away With Middle Spread." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Postcard requests cannot be answered. (c) King Features 1961
